DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The subject matter of this application admits of illustration by a drawing to facilitate understanding of the invention. Applicant is required to furnish a drawing under 37 CFR 1.81(c). No new matter may be introduced in the required drawing. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5, 9 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shaw et al.

There is disclosed in Shaw a device for preparing a beverage from a food substance contained in a capsule 2, the device comprising a housing 4, 5 for receiving the capsule, a piercing and injection element 7 having a channel for receiving liquid under pressure, the piercing and injection element projecting into the housing and piercing a face of the capsule, the piercing and injection element having a distal end arranged in the form of a valve having a closure means 8, the valve being designed to close off the channel in a first position and to open under the effect of the pressure from the liquid against the elastic closure member and to create a layer of liquid sprayed through the channel in a second position.

In regards to claim 2 it is apparent that spray would be in multiple directions once it was discharged from a distal end opening of the piercing and injection member. Such would be the case since the opening is angled.

In regards to the thickness of the liquid layer, it is apparent that at some point the injection device of Shaw could produce a layer of the claimed thickness.

Claims 10-12, 15-19 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hale.

There is disclosed in Hale a device for preparing a beverage from a food substances contained in a capsule 200, the device comprising a housing 20 for receiving the capsule, a piercing and injection element 58 having a channel 59 for receiving a liquid under pressure, the piercing and injection element projecting into the housing and piercing a face of the capsule, the piercing and injection element having slots 62 that are transverse to the piercing and injection element, the slots being arranged so as to inject the liquid into the capsule in the form of a thin layer extending in a continuous, divergent and multidirectional manner, Covering a spray surface in an arc of a circle.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4, 6-8, 13, 14 and 20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The prior art references to Cai, Favre and Fond are cited for their disclosure of the state of the art.
